

Reflection of the Mexican Students' Representative

Member of the faculty, guests, and classmates

The end of these courses is announcing us a new season in our lives. Thailand was quite an amazing experience, a new country, a new culture and new people to get along with, for sure, we had been touched by the magic of this country and kindness of its people.

It's heartbreaking to leave the Bangkok University, we got used to love coming here every morning, to leave with a smile at the end of the day that now back at home we will just have the memory of the wonderful time we had here. The University was a gateway to understand Thailand not like a tourist, but like a citizen, it makes a difference when actually there's no big difference between the perception we had of this country before and the one we have now, that even some got to love elephants, Thai massage and also do love mango sticky rice; we are just amazed of this country that opened the doors to us, that it just feel like home.

We have to thank all these people at Bangkok University who make special such a trip like this, specially the University staff who taught us the incredible of this country, not only in classrooms but also outside. Thanks for teaching us from talking in Thai to flower making. Thanks for being such an extraordinary persons who cared about our stay in Thailand and make a better business outline for us that without a doubt will be useful in our future. We'll be back.... This is only the beginning of our new stage in life, thanks Bangkok University for this opportunity.
